Ferry Boat Struck in Midstream by Hudson River Steamer.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Eight hundred passengers on the ferryboat Paunpeck, of the Hoboken Perry Line, were thrown into a panic this evening and several ware injured when the ferryboat was struck in mastream by a Hudson Rive steamer, the name of which has not ye steamer, the name of which has not yet been learned.

Thie overhang of the Paunpeck was torn away from the paddle wheel aft to the tear end of the men's cabin. The shock of the collision knocked down a number of the passengers who had risen from their seats a moment before, and several were struck by broken timbers. There was great excitement on board which the members of the crew were unable to quitt.

The Paunpeck was able to proceed to her dock in Hoboken under her own steam, and there the injured were cared for.

Dr. Hatcher in Baltimore.

Dr. William E. Hatcher returned yesterday afternoon from Baltimore, where he has been the guest of his son, Dr. Eldridge B. Hatcher, for several days. While in the Monumental City the doctor preached in special services in the First Baptist Church, of which Dr. Curits Lee Laws, so favorably known in Richmond, is the pastor. The meetings were of a remarkably interesting character. Dr. Hatcher, with his wife, who is spending a month with their son, were most charmingly and elegantly entertained at dinners given in their honor by Mr. Richard H. Edmonds, of the Manufacturers' Record: Hon, Joshua Levering, and Mr. Geo. Miller, of Roland Park. Dr. Hatcher also made an address at the First Church, in which he champloned the claims of Richmond College.

Dr. Hatcher goes to-day to Hollins, where he is to speak to the young women of that distinguished institution to-morrow and also preach at the Enon Baptist Church.

FOR THE FARMER.

SHALL HE GO INTO DEBT?

Problem for Young Man With Small Capital on the Farm. (Joseph E. Wing.)
A young man writes me from Ohio that

A young man writes me from Onlo that he owns half of 40 acres of tillable land and 75 acres of wood and pasture, and wants my advice as to whether he should stay on that small place or go to work in a mill in the town.

I do not know what is best for you. It

I do not know what is best for you. It does not depend at all upon data you have given me. It depends primarily upon yourself. If you are strong physically, steady, faithful, you can work in milis as you say, and do well. You will come and go at other men's beck, you will work early and late, you will miss the country sir and sun and the familiar joys of country life. Your children will grow up in town with less vigor, less balance, less industry and stability of character, than they would have if country-grown, yat for all that there is joy in doing the work of a town, if it is done honestly and well. And you can make as much money doubtless as though you owned a small farm. If you will let me easily persuade you to leave the country life will breaden you. Will better go.

leave the country for the town you would better go.

Country life will broaden you, will stimulate your thought; you will grow in the country, it you live up to your opportunities. If you have good health, feed sense, persistence, you can pay for the farm easily enough and will be wise to go in debt for the other half of it. Earlich it with animal manures and clovers. Get the fences in good shape. Make the barns usable. Learn what sort of farming and stock growing you are adapted to, and having taken it up, stick to it.

of farming and stock growing you are adapted to, and having taken it up, stick to it.

A little debt is good for a young man. It makes him careful, saving, energetic. Too much drowns Mis ambition by the very magnitude of what he has to overcome. Probably you may have to pay more for that bit of extra land when you are ready to buy it; you can afford to pay more by that time.

Do not be unduly discouraged by your small area. Enrich what you have and you will find it produces as much as the average farm twice its size. Alfalfa yields on good bottom fields six to eight tons per acre. You must learn to grow it, and the land must learn, as Professor Hopkins tells us. Corn may easily be made to yield double what it has in your country. These things are possible if you keep stock and make manures. Do not overstock. Start slow. I suggest lamb-feeling as a good venture for a careful man with a small farm.

The Golden Hoof.

The Golden Hoof.

It has been claimed that keeping sheep on a farm will pay even in the absence of any direct profit because of the benefit they bring to the land where they graze. Many of the most successful farmers fully believe the statement is correct. When sheep can be grazed without entailing additional special outlay in order to provide fencing they will unquestionably more than pay for the food which they consume

The first match was a go between Ivan Kronsky and a wrestler, Alexandrovitch, as the press agents denominate him. The first two bouts were denominate him. The first two bouts were at Greco-Roman and the third at catch as can style. Kronsky was the heavier of the pair, but his opponent was wiry and remarkably qulck and clusive. Kronsky succeeded in getting the first fall in four minutes, ten seconds after a lively tussie. His lighter opponent by a very quick turn when he himself seemed doomed to turn when he himself seemed doomed to go down, slipped from Kronsky's grasp and put the heavier man down. It was a lightning turn and a clover bit of work. Kronsky won the catch as can in six min-utes, thereby winning the match.

The Second Match.

The second match was between Gus Jansen, a German, reputed to be the champion of Germany in his class, and champion of Germany in his class, and Gus Otto, a Hollander. This was best two in three, catch as can. Jansen assumed the aggressive at the start and had Otto on the defensive throughout. It required just five minutes and fifty-two seconds to put his opponents' shoulders on the mat in the first bout. In the second, the two men put up a game struggle, the advantage wavering from start to finish. Several times it seemed that Otto had the powerful German almost surely, but Jansen eluded his grasp and finally after ten minutes' struggle, got the fall and the match. The time as announced was ten minutes ten seconds. The other matches had been tame, indeed, compared to the last of the trio, when Bennie Jones, of Newport News, and Sam Smith, two lightweights, advanced to the mat, This match, too, was at eatch as can. The other matches had been tame, indeed, compared to the list of the Irio, when Bennie Jones, of Newport News, and Sam Smith, two lightweights, advanced to the mat. This match, too, was at catch as can. It took but two bouts to settle it. Jones winning two straight falls. The two men were well matched, but Jones soon demonstrated the fact that he was the eleverer of the two. His remarkable quickness and agility enabled him to squeeze out of some dangerous holds. At times his opponent was standing with Jones feet in his grasp, endeavoring to throw him face upward to the mat, but Jones whired around on his baid head a sif upan axis and proved too quick for his opponent to get any advantage from the position.
